Circulation Ratings, Explanations, etc

Those who consult this Directory for newspaper circulations should bear in mind that it does not purport to give the actual issue of the paper for the day the book is referred to, but the average issue of the paper in question for a whole year preceding by some weeks or months the date of publication of the book.

During the annual revisions every publisher of a periodical has an opportunity to place on file in the Directory office a true statement of his actual issues during the preceding year. In preparing such a statement the publisher should take care

1st.—To set down separately the number of complete copies printed of each issue during the 12 months preceding the date of statement.

2d.—The sum of the several issues should be ascertained and be divided by the number of separate issues, thus showing the average issue.

3d.—The statement should be dated.

4th.—The statement should be signed by some person whose authority to give the information is either evident or stated.

Every publication, from which a correct and truthful yearly detailed circulation report, signed and dated, was received, has a circulation rating in Arabic figures. These figures rep[illegible] the number of copies printed, if not otherwise specified in this book. [illegible]ing by letter, as explained by the KEY below, is never given to a paper if the actual average issue has been ascertained. The rating by letter indicates that the paper will not or does not furnish information upon which an exact and definite rating may be based.

The circulation rating is omitted when a paper is less than one year old. Publications which do not insert advertisements in their columns are so indicated, and no circulation ratings are accorded to such.

AT the Convention of the Association of American Advertisers, held at Delmonico's, New York City, January 29 and 30, 1902, the following resolution was passed unanimously:

It is the sense of this convention that the labor expended and the statistics obtained by the publishers of Rowell's American Newspaper Directory during the thirty-four years of its existence have been invaluable to advertisers. Although their definition of circulation is the number of copies printed, and not the more exhaustive and satisfactory definition recognized by this convention, which requires a knowledge of the net paid circulation and its distribution, still it is believed that this Directory more than any other has kept before advertisers the fact that a correct knowledge of circulation is essential to the successful advertiser.

J K L rating indicates that the average issue of the paper is not supposed to exceed a thousand copies, which is the advertiser's unit of value. Papers with 100 or 200 subscribers generally demand about as much for their advertising space as is asked by others issuing 800 or 900 copies. They frequently occupy exclusive fields which some advertisers deem of special value.

An X rating indicates that a communication from the paper, in answer to an application for a revision or correction of the circulation rating accorded to it, created the impression that the paper will not be satisfied with any rating the editor of the Directory would be justified in according. A paper to which the "X" rating is applied is generally one that (in the opinion of the editor of the Directory) is likely to cost an advertiser more for a service it can render than would be required to obtain a similar benefit from some other publication.

A Y rating signifies that no recent circulation statement has been furnished from the office of the paper, and a consequent probability that the last circulation rating accorded to it may be higher than a new statement would warrant.

A Z rating indicates that a communication received, in answer to an application for revision or correction of the circulation rating accorded to the paper, fell short of being a satisfactory circulation report because of one or more of the shortcomings specified below:

1. It was not signed.
2. It was not dated.
3. It failed to convey the necessary information.
4. It was not given with sufficient attention to detail.
5. It did not specify the time supposed to be covered by the report.
6. It did not cover the issues for a full year.
7. It was signed with a hand stamp.
8. It was signed by some person whose authority to sign was not known or explained.
9. It was signed only by an initial or by initials.
10. It was not given in such a way as would make it possible to hold any one responsible for the information it purported to give, should it afterwards be proven untrue.
11. It failed to strike an average for the period covered in detail, and thereby made it impossible to quote any figures as having been shown by the publisher of the paper.
12. It failed to clearly state what was meant by the word "circulation," which should be stated to be the average number of complete and perfect copies printed for the period of a full year.

The Z rating is most largely applied to newspapers whose publishers are better at issuing circulation claims in round figures than in sustaining their claims by facts and records.

The Z rating is never applied until after the attention of the publisher has been directed to the insufficiency of the report he has furnished and full information given him how the fault might be remedied. For additional signs, etc., see next page.

Signs following Circulation Figures.

(aaa) These circulation figures are from a report of an examination made by the ASSOCIATION OF AMERICAN ADVERTISERS.

(bb) In numerous instances where the Sunday circulation of a paper is larger than for the other days of the week, the publisher is inclined to have it reckoned in with the six daily issues, thereby securing a higher rating for the daily than the facts would entitle him to. Such daily circulation ratings are designated by two lower case b's (bb) affixed to the Arabic figures.

(⊙⊙) Advertisers value this paper more for the class and quality of its circulation than for the mere number of copies printed. Among the old chemists gold was symbolically represented by the sign ⊙.—Webster's Dictionary.

(??) This sign is applied in cases where a publisher expresses himself dissatisfied with the rating accorded, but unwilling to convey information that will warrant a higher rating.

(± ±) These ± plus and minus signs indicate that distinctly separate circulation statements made by this paper at different times, but covering the same period, fail to agree.

(! !) The general advertiser ought to make himself well acquainted with the merits of this publication before contracting with it for advertising space.

(††) This publication is a "kicker"—unfriendly to the objects of the Newspaper Directory, and gives little information.

(÷÷) This publication admits that a correct circulation report would show lower figures than those credited in the last report.

(<) This paper, in preparing its signed circulation report, omits to state that it counts only complete and perfect copies, and leaves it open to the suspicion of being based on figures exhibited by a press counter and likely to include spoiled copies and a proportion of press revolutions when no paper was running through.

(△△) No recent information or late copy of this publication has been received at the office of the Directory, and it may have ceased publication altogether.

(▲▲) The name of this paper has been heard mentioned and has had a place in one or more lists purporting to catalogue the papers of the State; but the editor of Rowell's American Newspaper Directory is not in possession of satisfactory proof that it ever became an established publication.

(○○) The editor of this Directory does not remember that this paper has ever placed on file any claim to a higher circulation rating than is here accorded.

(●●) This paper has, on one or more occasions, indicated a desire for a higher rating than was accorded in this book; but such definite information as would warrant a higher rating than is now given has not been obtained.

(□□) This publication admits that no such record of circulation has been kept as would make it possible to prepare such a statement as the Directory requires from other papers with which this one is likely to be brought into competition.

(■■) Although the publisher of this publication admits that no such record is kept as would make it possible to prepare a circulation statement such as the Directory requires from other papers with which this one is likely to be brought into competition, yet it gives out figures purporting to represent the average issue. In other words, it tells what its circulation is, and at the same time admits that it does not know.

The accuracy of this rating has been questioned by one or more persons who claim to have facilities for knowing the facts.

The accuracy of this rating has been questioned by one or more persons who claim to have facilities for knowing the facts, and it is feared that the doubts expressed do rest upon a substantial foundation.

The editor of Rowell's American Newspaper Directory has offered to verify the correctness of a circulation statement furnished by this paper, provided the publisher of the paper would agree to place the necessary facilities at his disposal. It was stipulated that the verification should be without cost to the publisher of the paper; but to this offer the publisher's response was not such as to entirely remove the impression of doubt that had been cast on the accuracy of the statement furnished.

REVISION DATE: The figures (in brackets) following the description of a paper, and preceding the circulation rating, fix the date of the latest revision of the description. For example: (1—5) means that the description was revised and verified during the first month of the year 1905. If the final figure is followed by the letter P, thus (1—5 P), it means that the last verification of the description was based upon an examination of a copy of the paper of about that date without the aid of any report or other information from the publisher.

POPULATION FIGURES followed by a dagger (†) are from the United States Census of 1900. Population figures not followed by a dagger have been obtained from reliable local authorities.

A right for their perpetual use in Rowell's American Newspaper Directory was obtained by purchase from the late Dr. J. M. Toner, of Washington, by whom they were designed and copyrighted.

PREFACE.

In the early part of last fall the charge to bring out the present edition of Rowell's American Newspaper Directory came to me in a rather unexpected manner. It came to me partly as a consequence of some plain talk I made about the book to the owner and partly, I suspect, that he had more or less intended to teach me a thing or two, and perhaps to give me a chance to prove some of my arguments.

I had then already some definite ideas and convictions; I still have them, besides having added new ones.

I was glad I got the job, being allowed to start on the road which I deemed to be the right one.

On November 1, 1904, the Printers' Ink Publishing Company became owners and publishers of Printers' Ink and Rowell's American Newspaper Directory, and that day marked, in fact and truth, the independence of the two publications.

On November 10th of the same year I issued a circular letter to the publishers of the country apprising them of the above fact and of the intention to issue a newspaper directory solely upon its merits, absolutely independent, and separate from an advertising agency.

It was a somewhat bold idea, novel at any rate, and there were those who said it could not be done with any degree of success. It may be of interest to reprint part of that circular letter:

> Rowell's American Newspaper Directory is, and has been of late, conducted absolutely independent and separate from any advertising agency. It is, and purports to be, a newspaper directory and nothing else. Newspapers buying it or advertising in it do so upon its merits, and not in the expectation of advertising favors to come to them in consideration of the purchase or advertising order. The book is sold for cash only, and whatever advertisements will appear are accepted on a cash basis and no other.
> What is foremost in my mind to-day is the hope and belief that a newspaper directory conducted upon its merits alone, without deals, swaps or exchanges of any sort, may gain the undivided good-will and support of honest publishers. It was with a view of obtaining your active co-operation that I was prompted to address this communication to you.
> As the manager of the next edition of Rowell's American Newspaper Directory I feel the necessity of getting closer to the responsible and honorable publisher, and while the strictness of Mr. Rowell's principles and the time-honored integrity of his purposes will remain unchanged I realize the desirability of having the publishers support and co-operation.

The response to this announcement, from the best publishers all over the country, was instant and thoroughly gratifying. The plan of a truly independent directory was welcomed, praised, cordially endorsed and desired. I have many times read the pile of letters now laying before me which I received on that occasion and which brought the first cheer in a departure which seemed not easy, to say the least.

In subsequent dealings with the American publishers I not only found them to be gentlemen as a rule, but I discovered that a large number of them were heartily in accord with the methods and endeavors of the Rowell Directory and thoroughly disgusted with the graft system which numerous so-called directories, issued by advertising agencies practice. Many publishers admitted they were being blackmailed, though they were willing to submit to this for fear of losing business from the agencies. So many publishers have told me this story that I am inclined to believe it, though I have never yet been able to comprehend its logic.

And if the story is true I hope to God the American publisher will soon assert his manhood and reject in the future, a method of business of which he admits he is ashamed.

Every single advertisement which has a place in this book was secured on a cash contract and given a place in the catalogue part and within the respective State.

I did not have the desire, nor the gall, to ask a publisher to pay us good money for an advertisement, then place it in the back part of a ponderous volume, bunched together with hundreds of others, where it would be about as effective as if placed "under a coffin-lid."

I reasoned that a publisher is entitled to SERVICE, and to the best sort of service I could offer him. An advertisement as placed in the 1905 edition of this directory IS valuable to the publisher, and conveys welcome information to the advertiser who buys the book solely for the sake of the information it conveys.

The Rowell Directory has been for over a third of a century the link of service between publisher and advertiser, the only one with an independent fundamental policy and conduct.

It is now in its thirty-seventh year of consecutive publication under the supervision of its founder.

There is no greater power in this country than its Press, and there is no greater single industry than American advertising. A directory which honestly and intelligently serves both has not only its mission, but is a necessity, and it may even hope to explode in the future that great fallacy, and that unwarranted prejudice of a publisher's association whose members have collectively obligated themselves to refuse to advertise in one directory simply and solely for the reason that they might also be called upon to advertise in the editions of half a dozen imitators. Why any one should agree collectively to something that he personally despises is rather odd.

Graft, as a factor in modern advertising, has had its day. Service and "making good" are taking its place. The honest publisher and the honest advertiser welcome alike an honest newspaper directory. Rowell's American Newspaper Directory, its principles, its integrity, are more appreciated to-day than ever before. This book will stand in years to come, in the history of American advertising, as the greatest achievement of its founder, Mr. George P. Rowell, who, in the first appendix in the rear of this volume, defines "What is circulation?" based upon a forty years' experience in dealing with the subject.

The revision of the 1906 edition has already begun, in fact revision is constantly going on.

Information regarding dead or new papers, changes in frequency of issue, name or ownership is solicited and gladly received at this office, where it will have due attention.

Likewise suggestions and criticisms of a constructive nature and intent. Improvements are constantly in mind, and there is room for many until this Directory shall have attained and be recognized as the Clearing House and a national institution to which the advertiser may look for information, advice and help. There is no better foundation anywhere upon which to build an enduring structure of that sort than Rowell's American Newspaper Directory.

The 1905 edition is carefully revised. No comment is necessary. The book speaks for itself.

There has been a rather increased tendency on the part of the publishers to furnish circulation statements as exacted under the Directory rules, and the 1905 edition exceeds any previous year in Arabic figure ratings.

Unusual interest is manifested in the so-called Star Galaxy. Between 1899 and 1904 eight publications only had secured the Guarantee Star distinction, while during the 1905 revision nineteen new names were added, making a total of twenty-seven, namely:

In this connection it may be, perhaps, of interest to state that, although the 1905 edition of the Directory is now completed, guarantee certificates will be issued at any time between new and the time of going to press with the 1906 Directory to publications deemed eligible to the Star galaxy.

It may be truly said that the Guarantee Star attached to a publication in Rowell's American Newspaper Directory is the most conspicuous distinction which the Directory editor gives to a paper. The Star constitutes for a publication possessing it a perpetual advertisement of the highest character—costing nothing after the initial payment. Year after year the Star will appear in each issue of the book, imbedded in the catalogue part of the Directory, guaranteeing the accuracy of the latest circulation rating given in Arabic figures—always free after the initial payment. It stands out bold and bright as the symbol of the highest guarantee for a publisher's honesty and square dealing with an advertiser.

Rowell's American Newspaper Directory Guarantee Star is of vastly higher quality and value to the intelligent advertiser than all the certificates of associations and accountants that charge good fees for a one-time sporadic investigation, which is as ephemeral as it is misleading. Rowell's Guarantee Star is perpetual—it guarantees the publisher's honesty and good faith; it guarantees his own statement, and the Directory merely acts as custodian and attorney for publisher and advertiser.

ROWELL'S
American Newspaper Directory

ISSUED ANNUALLY.

ESTABLISHED 1869.

This work is the source of information on Newspaper Statistics in the United States and Canada.

Advertisers, Advertising Agents, Editors, Politicians and the Departments of the Government rely upon its statements as the recognized authority.

It gives a brief description of each place in which newspapers are published, population, railroads, local industries, name and location of county, etc., etc.

It gives the names of all Newspapers and other Periodicals.

It gives the Politics, Religion, Class, Nationality, etc.

It gives the Frequency of Issue.

It gives the Editor's name.

It gives the Publisher's name.

It gives the Size of the Paper.

It gives the Subscription Price.

It gives the Date of Establishment.

It gives the Circulation—present, as well as for a series of years past, thus enabling an advertiser to determine the probable future.

It gives a separate list of all papers rated in the body of the book with a circulation of over one thousand.

It gives a separate list of all newspapers having a Sunday issue.

It gives a list of all Class Publications (Religious, Agricultural, Medical, Trade, in Foreign Languages, etc.), and a complete index to each class.

It contains maps of each State, showing towns in which there are newspapers with more than 1,000 circulation.

It also contains other valuable tabulations and classifications.

The price of ROWELL'S AMERICAN NEWSPAPER DIRECTORY is TEN Dollars—net cash, all transportation charges prepaid.

As the most important portion of the information supplied by a mercantile agency consists of a report of the financial strength of the person about whom information is asked, so is the circulation of a newspaper generally considered the point upon which information will be of most value to the advertiser. The greatest possible care is taken to make the DIRECTORY reports correct. Every publisher is applied to systematically. All information is taken in a form which excludes any but definite statements, while every effort is made to protect honest publishers against such as would resort to disingenuous reports to gain an unfair advantage.

[It will be noted that this report is signed with a pen by one whose authority to sign is apparent or clearly stated.]

FORM FOR A SATISFACTORY CIRCULATION STATEMENT.

RULES AND USAGES THAT PREVAIL IN THE ANNUAL REVISIONS OF ROWELL'S AMERICAN NEWSPAPER DIRECTORY.

For thirty-seven years Rowell's American Newspaper Directory has been issued regularly and has been the one authentic and trustworthy authority concerning the circulation of American newspapers.

The book consists of four parts.

Part I. contains a catalogue of all American periodical publications.

Part II. consists of a list of all publications rated in Part I. as having a circulation of 1,000 copies or more.

Part III. consists of a complete list of papers issued on Sunday.

Part IV. consists of a complete catalogue of Class and Trade papers.

The price of the Directory is Ten dollars.

As soon as an edition of the Directory is issued a revision is begun for the edition to follow.

For each revision a communication is sent to every paper, submitting the description as it appeared in the latest Directory, and it is the publisher's privilege to furnish any correction that may be necessary for a correct description.

It is every publisher's privilege to have the circulation rating of his paper brought up to date if he will file with the Directory editor a detailed statement showing his actual issues for the entire twelve months preceding.

Each letter or report from a newspaper is read and every change noted. Correspondence coming too late for attention is held over for the next revision.

"New Newspapers" heard of since the revision for the last edition are communicated with, and if late copies or detailed descriptions are obtained the papers are given a place in the Directory catalogue.

"Publisher's Announcements," which follow the description of a paper in the catalogue portion of the book, are paid advertisements wherein it is the newspaper publisher's privilege to make any statement, on his own responsibility, that he deems important to bring to the attention of every one who consults the Directory with a view of selecting suitable papers in which to insert an advertisement. Such announcements are put in type as they are received, and inserted in the body of the book as the pages are made up. The cost is one dollar a line (average six words to a line). Proofs are exhibited in advance if desired.

The Directory is intended to contain a complete catalogue of all newspapers published, and a circulation statement or estimate; consequently, neither the name nor the circulation rating of a paper can be omitted in response to a request to that effect.

Unless there are strong reasons to the contrary, the name of a publication that is not admitted to the United States mails as second-class matter is not entered in the Directory, and under the same restrictions, any publication admitted as second-class matter is considered entitled to a place in the Directory.

It is not intended that publications of ephemeral character shall have a place in the Directory. When in doubt whether a publication should be included or excluded, it is always excluded.

In cases where a paper is dated from two or more places it is catalogued under the town where it is actually issued and a reference to it is given space under the town where it purports to be issued.

When one or more editions of a newspaper are issued for another town or village, the words "prints an edition for" (naming town), or "prints special editions for neighboring towns," are added to its description, and the circulation rating in such cases is specified as "combined circulation." No mention of such an extra edition is made under the town where it purports to be issued.

When the name of a paper appears in the Directory catalogue for the first time no circulation rating is intended to be accorded unless the paper has been published for the period of a full year or more or is the successor of another paper previously described.

To publications that do not admit advertisements in their columns no circulation rating is accorded.

Commencing with the issue for 1897, there was given in the Directory to papers supposed to print an average of as many as a thousand copies a summary of the Directory ratings accorded during the preceding five years. This has been supplemented by adding the circulation rating for each year, thus giving a comprehensive record of a paper's past as well as its present circulation.

The actual average circulation for the year past is always stated in plain figures if the necessary information is furnished upon which the figures may be based.

To report his circulation in such a way as to convey information to an inquirer it is deemed necessary that a publisher shall state what the output has been for each separate issue for an entire year.

Advertisers think that they can judge more intelligently from a knowledge of what a circulation has been for a year past than from any sort of statement of what a publisher hopes or believes it will be for a year to come. It is his privilege to set forth his hopes and beliefs in a publisher's announcement if he thinks it will benefit him to an extent sufficient to warrant the expense.

A circulation statement is required to be signed. If signed with a hand stamp, or with initials, or by some person whose authority to sign is not apparent, the statement cannot be accepted as one the accuracy of which may be absolutely relied upon.

A report giving the number of quires or reams of paper used each week (instead of the actual number of copies printed) is not sufficiently definite. It may mean for an eight-page paper one-half the actual issue reported in quires. If it has four pages there are 24 copies to the quire. If eight pages, it will not be safe to allow for more than twelve copies to the quire. A quire is 24 sheets, and not 25. A ream is 480 sheets, and not 500. Furthermore, a statement expressed in quires or reams always includes waste and spoiled copies, which cannot be properly counted as circulation.

When the report or description of a paper that has been submitted to a publisher for revision comes back bearing a mark of acquiescence, or bearing no mark whatever, its return is taken as evidence that the publisher has no corrections to make, and it is taken as an admission that the circulation rating at present accorded him is high enough, whatever else may be said about it.

When a publisher furnishes a true statement showing the actual number of copies printed for each and every issue during the preceding year, added together to show the aggregate number and divided by the number of separate issues, thus arriving at the actual average of each issue, the statement being dated and signed, the paper is always rated in accordance.

When a publisher is unable to give the actual figures for each issue of his paper for a year past, but claims a higher rating than was given in the latest issue of the Directory, and his assertion covers a period of an entire year, and is authenticated by date and signature, it secures a rating according to the facts stated in his report; provided he plainly states that no edition during the past year was less than—a specified number of—complete and perfect copies. It is a curious fact, however, that most of the lying statements detected in the Directory are of this order; they are, on this account, always open to suspicion.

When a publisher states what has been his average circulation for the past year, without giving the figures of each issue, his report fails to entitle him to the rating he appears to claim, because the editor of the Directory believes he ought to see and have on file the figures by which the result was arrived at, so that he may be assured that the calculation was made with accuracy. No publisher can tell what his average circulation has been without first causing the figures to be set down and the necessary calculations made; and when that has been done, he may just as well send the figures for examination, and to be placed on file at the office of the Directory. A mistake may have been made which a glance would reveal. An unwillingness to submit the figures for inspection is always regarded as a suspicious circumstance, and casts a doubt upon the accuracy of the circulation figures claimed.

When the word "circulation" is used without definition or qualification in a circulation statement and the figures are round and indefinite, as so many even hundreds or thousands, it fails to inform the editor of the Directory whether it means the number of copies printed or it is intended as an estimate of the number of readers, figuring five or some other number for each copy. What the Directory editor wants to know is the actual number of complete and perfect copies printed for the period of a full year. Spoiled copies and waste are not to be included in the count.

Daily papers having a Sunday issue are accorded a separate circulation rating for the Sunday edition whenever separate statements are furnished, one for the week-day issues alone and a separate one for the Sunday edition alone.

When a morning and an evening edition of a daily are published, even though the evening edition has a different name, the circulation report is permitted to cover both editions, and be so stated in the book, provided all advertisements ordered in one edition of the paper appear in the other also without extra charge.

In cases where, for a considerable time, no information is received from a publisher concerning the circulation of his paper, it is the rule to occasionally reduce the rating, unless information from outside sources forces the impression that the present circulation rating is not too high.

In a town where one paper gives information about its circulation that is definite and satisfactory, and another gives information the accuracy of which no one would be justified in guaranteeing in the form in which it is given, a great deal of consideration is accorded to statements about the circulation of rival publications made by the publisher who has furnished definite and satisfactory information about his own paper, and very little to statements about the circulation of his rivals made by the publisher who fails to make a satisfactory statement about his own.

Publishers who refrain from furnishing any information about circulation or who furnish information in a form that is not specific and authentic, are rated by capital letters, the meaning of which is made known by the key. These ratings represent the opinion of the editor of the Directory at the time of going to press.

Whenever the marks #, # #, # # #, and other marks of doubt (± ±) (! !) (<), appear against the circulation rating of a paper, the circulation rating of the paper so marked is not given in the list in Part II. of the Directory, or in other tabulations, but in place of the rating the doubt mark only is given.

Publishers of newspapers and other periodicals are aware that it costs nothing to have a correct description inserted in the American Newspaper Directory. Neither is any payment demanded or accepted for inserting correct circulation figures. All that is requisite, in either case, is to furnish the information in a form that will admit of verification. If a publisher wishes to supplement the description of his paper by a displayed advertisement or a "publisher's announcement" he pays for the advertising space in accordance with the advertising rates established; but such advertisements or publishers'announcements have no influence upon the circulation rating accorded a paper, nor is any influence needed, because every paper is credited with the exact circulation its publisher claims, if he furnishes the information in the same form that is demanded from every one of his competitors.

Publisher's announcement.—Arizona now contains 150,000 people, and the permanent population is growing rapidly. Arizona's soil and climate make it possible to produce every crop known to agriculture and horticulture, and her mineral wealth cannot be estimated by figures. Her people have money. They all read the ARIZONA REPUBLICAN. It is the only metropolitan newspaper that reaches them on the day of publication. It is printed on a perfecting press, operates a battery of linotypes and owns the exclusive morning Associated Press franchise. It has more circulation than all the other Arizona newspapers combined and reaches practically every postoffice in the Territory. It is the one newspaper covering the vast region between the Colorado boundary and Southern California. Write for sample copies and rates.

Publisher's announcement.—During 1904 the Fresno EVENING DEMOCRAT received contracts from eighty-six foreign advertisers exclusively to cover the field of Central California—seven-eighths of all foreign advertising placed in this field. The DEMOCRAT covers the richest section of California, the products of which, during the last year, exceeded $16,000,000 in the county alone. Fresno being just half way between San Francisco and Los Angeles—225 miles from either place—has a field of its own of great proportions. The DEMOCRAT is the only evening paper between San Francisco and Los Angeles receiving the full Associated Press dispatches, and is accorded recognition everywhere as one of the best Coast papers. Eastern representatives, Williams & Lawrence, Tribune Building, New York; Will T. Cresmer, U. S. Express Building, Chicago.

Publisher's announcement.—For forty-four (44) years the MINING and SCIENTIFIC PRESS has led in its line; weekly seen by thousands of readers everywhere, who look to its advertising pages as a directory for their needs; consulted by the men who do the buying and who have the say as to what shall be bought and where. These men annually buy $40,000,000 worth of machinery and supplies. The MINING and SCIENTIFIC PRESS works with and for its advertising patrons in giving them profitable publicity. Published continuously under the same name, and in the same place, since 1860; recognized as a national institution; the foremost exponent of the great basic industries it represents; weekly looked for by every prominent mining man and engineer.

SPECIMEN INDORSEMENT.

DENVER, COLO., November 19, 1904.

PERRY A. CLAY, City.

Dear Sir: We are running an ad of the New Model Universal Adding and Listing Machine in CLAY'S REVIEW, and I take pleasure in informing you that we have had TWENTY-SIX inquiries resulting from the ad up to date. I expect that TWENTY sales will materialize through this influence alone. CLAY'S REVIEW is the only Denver publication in which we advertise, and in our opinion it is the best advertising medium in the West.

Yours very truly,

F. P. BERTSCHY & Co., General Western Agents.

Publisher's announcement.—The DAILY TELEGRAM UNION is the only morning publication in a city (including suburbs) having a population of one hundred thousand souls. The TELEGRAM is the family paper of the city and is delivered by carriers at the homes of its subscribers, therefore far more valuable to advertisers than papers sold upon the street. The TELEGRAM-UNION permitted the examiner of the Association of American Advertisers to make a thorough examination of its circulation, and proved to his entire satisfaction that the 9,500 daily readers that were claimed are bona fide and paid subscribers. We are now printing nearly 10,000 copies daily.

Publisher's announcement.—The REGISTER, with largest circulation in its history in 1904, is by far the best advertising medium and most influential paper in the largest city in Connecticut. It reaches the buying class and always brings best results. Many local advertisers use no other medium. A number doubled their appropriation last year. Carries more columns of advertising than any paper in city. One-quarter page ad last year received 850 replies. Largest and best equipment in city—two Hoe presses, seven linotypes. If you want results, the REGISTER meets the test.

Publisher's announcement.—The New Haven UNION shows a sworn average circulation for 1904 of 16,076 copies daily. It's the only one-cent publication in New Haven that reaches the classes as well as the masses. Everybody reads the UNION, because it is right up to date. Advertisers get results. We guarantee our circulation and prove it by carriers' receipts, post office and express receipts, and lastly, by our circulation books and paper bills. Our rate per thousand for guaranteed paid circulation is cheaper than that of all the other evening papers combined. The UNION is the only evening paper in New Haven that permitted the Association of American Advertisers to examine its circulation books, paper accounts and cash receipts from subscriptions, proving fully that the paper had all it claims.

Publisher's announcement.—The BULLETIN sets all of its matter; covers its local field thoroughly, besides covering all the good news of the surrounding towns; has its own carriers in Willimantic, Danielson and Putnam; is the only paper in Eastern Connecticut having no street sales—all route service, and gives the advertiser more for his money than any paper in Eastern Connecticut. It is conceded to be the leading and most influential paper in its territory.

The circulation of the BULLETIN is constantly increasing and varies very little from day to day, but each month and year shows that steady, substantial gain that all advertisers like. There is a possible 7,000 circulation in its field, and every effort is being, and will be, used to carry it to that figure.

Publisher's announcement.—The ARMY AND NAVY REGISTER was established twenty-seven years ago under title "The United States Military Gazette," for the purpose of supplying to the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Revenue Marine Service a wholly satisfactory weekly newspaper for three dollars per annum. The REGISTER was immediately welcomed by all arms of the Service and has since remained a favorite. The REGISTER, alone of weekly publications, has improved its form and extended its contents within the past five years. It prints 32 pages each week and copiously illustrates the subject matter. During the year 1904 it printed 47,501 lines of display advertising matter more than the next highest of its class. Officers, their families, and enlisted men, have, for the most part, to purchase by mail articles for personal use. They spend hundreds of thousands of dollars with the ARMY AND NAVY REGISTER'S advertisers each year. "It is the best Service paper ever published."

Publisher's announcement—The Jacksonville, Fla., METROPOLIS is Jacksonville's best paper. The sworn circulation for 1904 shows 8,760 copies daily. We are now printing and selling over 9,000 copies daily, which is by far the greatest circulation ever attained by any newspaper in Florida. The population of Jacksonville is over 40,000 souls. We cover Jacksonville most thoroughly and have a large circulation in Carrabelle, Deland, Fernandina, Green Cove, Jasper, Kissimme, Lakeland, Leesburg, Live Oak, Madison, Mayport, Ocala, Orlando, Pablo, Palatka, St. Augustine, Sanford, Starke, Tallahassee, etc. In fact, if you use the METROPOLIS you cover the City of Jacksonville and Florida most thoroughly. The METROPOLIS is the only paper in Jacksonville that permitted the Association of American Advertisers to make a thorough inspection of its circulation books and proved all it claims.

Publisher's announcement.—The basis of American prosperity is AGRICULTURE. The right arm of agriculture is LIVE STOCK. The cattle, horses, sheep and swine of the United States are worth three million dollars. The representative newspaper of this basic industry is THE BREEDERS' GAZETTE, a 48 to 60-page weekly. Established in 1881. The growth of its circulation has been steadily forward. No name is kept on its subscription list after the period paid for in advance has expired. Its circulation is therefore made up of live subscriptions.

Advertising rate 35c. a line, with discounts on large orders.

Publisher's announcement.—The DENTAL DIGEST is the only dental journal not controlled by the Dental Trust. It is the official organ of the National Dental Association, Dental Protective Association, Illinois State Dental Society, Pennsylvania State Dental Society, Michigan State Dental Association, National Association Dental Examiners, and many other leading dental organizations. Not a house organ. Carries twenty pages more advertisements, representing 30 more advertisers, than any other dental journal. The only dental journal that will prove its circulation by postoffice receipts, and the only one which has always furnished a circulation statement to the Directory. Recognized as the leading dental publication by the profession and trade. Lowest advertising rates, circulation considered. Guarantee at least 8,000 copies each issue for 1905.

Publisher's announcement.—The JOURNAL-NEWS is the only evening paper in a city having 75,000 population. Evansville is a manufacturing center, and therefore a workingman's town, which means that the workingman has no time to read the morning paper and has his evening paper delivered at his home, every line of which he reads thoroughly. We guarantee that our evening and Sunday editions average over 14,000 copies each issue, or a larger circulation than all of the other papers in Evansville have combined. The JOURNAL-NEWS also has a morning rural route edition which reaches 3,000 homes regularly every morning except Mondays, all advertisements contracted for in the evening edition are also inserted in the Morning Rural Route edition of the JOURNAL-NEWS.

☞ The absolute correctness of the latest circulation rating accorded the Tribune is guaranteed by the publishers of Rowell's American Newspaper Directory, who will pay one hundred dollars to the first person who successfully controverts its accuracy.

Publisher's announcement.—This report is of net circulation only, all returned and unsold copies deducted. The net daily average for the month of January, 1905, was 23,123. The TRIBUNE has the largest net circulation of any evening newspaper published in the United States in any city of less than 50,000 population. This unrivalled and regularly growing circulation is notable commendation of its territory. It has made detailed sworn circulation statements longer than any other paper in the State of Iowa. It prints more classified ads than any other Sioux City paper.
